The seeing eye, the hearing ear, the responsive heart

Three things make us happy and content: the seeing eye, the hearing ear, and the responsive heart. How can that be? We look around and see people in need and hear cries for help. Those around us may not respond. What happens at the same time when we also see and hear of opportunities and take action? Cards are mailed, visits are made, phones come alive, physical, and emotional needs are met and, most importantly, prayers are sent upward. Our responsive heart has helped those served to be happier and more content. And remember, when we respond, we become happier and more content as well.
